FEEDER CALF PRICES UP 37% FROM 1957

Prices paid for calves in the recently concluded Virginia feeder calf sales averaged 37% above those in the 1957 series, says K. C. Williamson, beef cattle marketing specialist at VPI.

A total of 26,276 calves were sold through the 26 sales this year, about 1,500 more than were sold in the sales last year. Steer calves were up slightly more than heifers. The 17,162 steer calves averaged $33.34 per cwt., or an increase of $8.63 over the previous year. The 9,114 heifers averaged $28.60 per cwt., up $8.22 over 1957. The spread between steers and heifers averaged $4.74 per cwt., or about 40c per cwt. more than last year.

The good season and good pasture conditions which prevailed over much of Virginia resulted in heavier calves this fall. Steers averaged 480 pounds per hetd, up 16 pounds from last year. Heifers averaged 442 pounds, 10 pounds heavier than in 1957. The good season evidently didn't help the grade. Only 32% of all calves sold were in the two top grades of Fancy and Choice, compared to 37% in 1957.

In the steer calf division, 33% were sold in the two top grades for $34.96 per cwt. At times it seemed that Good grade calves were selling extremely close to the Choice and Fancy, and this did happen on occasion. Overall, however, the Good grade steers averaged $33.34, or $1.62 per cwt. below the top grades. The Medium grade steer calves showed an even larger increase in price with an average of $30.97, or $2.37 below the Good grade.

In the heifer division, 31% made the Fancy and Choice grades, averaging $30.01 per cwt.; 42% graded Good and sold for $28.61 per cwt.; and 27% graded Medium and sold for $26.80 per cwt. The average steer calf in the 1958 sales returned his owner just short of $160 per head, while the heifer calf averaged $126.46 per head.

Calves were bought by 15 states other than Virginia, and a few calves went into such far away feed lots as Illinois and Minnesota. Ohio and Pennsylvania continued to furnish most of the out-of-state buyers.

Yearling Feeders Also Up

Virginia producers also consigned 11,973 head of yearling cattle to the annual yearling steer sales. They also were higher in price than in recent years, with an average price of $25.77 per cwt., up about 29% over 1957 prices.

Good pasture available last summer was also noticeable in the yearling cattle. Their average weight was 12 pounds over last year. With an average weight of 757 pounds the yearlings averaged $195 per head, a figure producers hadn't seen on their checks since the beginning of the organized steer sales in 1953.

Of Interest To Veterans

Opportunity for veterans holding National Service Life Insurance (NSLI) to buy a low cost new type of total disability income rider for their GI policies is now offered by the Veterans Administration.

Under the new-type rider now on sale, policyholders who may become totally disabled from any cause before age 60 and while the rider is in effect will receive an income of $10 per month for each $1,000 face amount of their GI policies.

Previous maximum was $5 per month, VA said.

Payments under the rider begin after the total disability has existed for six consecutive months and continue for the duration of the disability, regardless of its length.

No payment may be made for disabilities incurred after age 60, and no premium charge is made for the benefit after that date.

If the veteran is in good health and under age 60, the rider may be attached to any NSLI policy, except for a limited number sold to service-disabled veterans since April, 1951.

Although a physical examination is required of those whose age at their nearest birthday is 41 or more, VA pointed out that these policyholders may be examined by their local physicians, provided VA Medical application forms are used.

The agency said the premium cost of the rider varies according to the policyholder's age, type of policy, and its face value.

Those veterans who now have this old rider may get the new one at little extra cost.

Information and application forms are available at any VA office.

Health and Beauty

For the best health we must have a moderate amount of padding for warmth and cushioning of bones and nerves. We also need a little extra weight for emergency food depositories that will be called on when we are ill and connot take food.

Other than these demands, fat become, excessive and weight become a problem. Fatty tissue is not healthy tissue. It's not only unsightly but a real health menace.

Actual pound-loss should start as fat metabolism becomes higher. In other words, your body should burn up, rather than store up, food in fat depots. To speed up this process, exercise is necessary as well as a reduction of calorie intake. Fats, sugars and starches are best kept at a minimum. A diet of protective foods is a wise diet for young and old, for fat and slim. Protective foods are high in protein and mineral value.

A hit-or-miss reducing diet is not desirable. A person must learn good eating habits and stick with them year in and year out. These habits should be learned during childhood and are one of the most important of all responsibilites of a parent.

If the proper eating habits are set during childhood and are adhered to all during life, there is very little chance that a person will ever need to go on a drastic reducing diet. Chances are also very good that this person will enjoy good health throughout life.

It is a known fact that your eating habits are a potent, and determining factor in providing your body with strong cell tissue. Strong cell tissue breaks down slowly to age and sickness. Most Americans know enough about proper diet to eat wisely if we only would. For most of us it would require a bit of self control at first, but the feeling of glowing health that would result would be more than full payment for our efforts.
